

Teacher Back From Where He Ruled A Country – In A Film

MR. M. T. MOERANE, the much travelled Moral Re-Armament man, who returned to South Africa recently, has added film-acting to his many occupations. Mr. Moerane spent five months in Nigeria and Britain working on the filming of the successful M.R.A. play, "Freedom," which has been adapted for the screen. Mr. Moerane, the Charlestown, Natal, head school master, plays the leading role as prime minister of the country. And John Amata, of Ibadan, last year's president of the Nigerian Students' Association, is the leader of the opposition party in Parliament.

The cast has only one white man, Mr. Lionel Jardine. He plays the part of the country's governor. The play on which the film is based was written by several Africans, including Mr. Moerane.

The music score for the film was composed by Mr. Jim Orwins, famous American Negro composer.

"The moral of the film is the aspirations of the African everywhere," Mr. Moerane said. "I hope it will be released soon."

Mr. Moerane will soon be returning to England for more Moral Re-Armament assignments
